

Karin Multhaupt Engesser

Project management marketing and communication
Administration employee

“The diversity of my tasks and the chance to work creatively keeps me motivated and adds variety to my work.”

After gaining my commercial qualification, I worked as head of administration in the publishing industry for 15 years and also gained experience in the field of marketing. At Varem, marketing is now one of my main responsibilities. I enjoy taking a creative approach to presenting our projects and the progress of the construction work to the public and giving them an opportunity to be part of the action.

In my private life, I have devoted myself to handicrafts with leather and make bags and accessories in my studio. For me, this creative work is the ideal complement to my beautiful profession.
